Dear Friends,

The 2020–2021 year at the Cincinnati Art Museum is a story of marked contrasts. The museum leaned forward in new ways and expanded its reach and purpose even as the second year of a global and local health pandemic challenged us and our communities.

Stories of principled historical heroism, the brushstrokes of Frank Duveneck and the healing power of diverse Cincinnati artists and creative producers provided hope in 2020–2021. In this year, the galleries of the museum were filled as never before. Cincinnatians seeking beauty and the interleaves of social fabric again found each other at the Art Museum.

Outside of the doors of the museum, the grounds and pathways of 953 Eden Park Drive became a destination for Cincinnati. Construction advanced throughout giving universal access to the museum for all visitors. New landmark sculpture from Yinka Shonibare alighted upon the front entrance with reference to collections past, present and future. The museum reached into community spaces and schools to partner and to serve. Virtual spaces expanded with new programming and outreach.

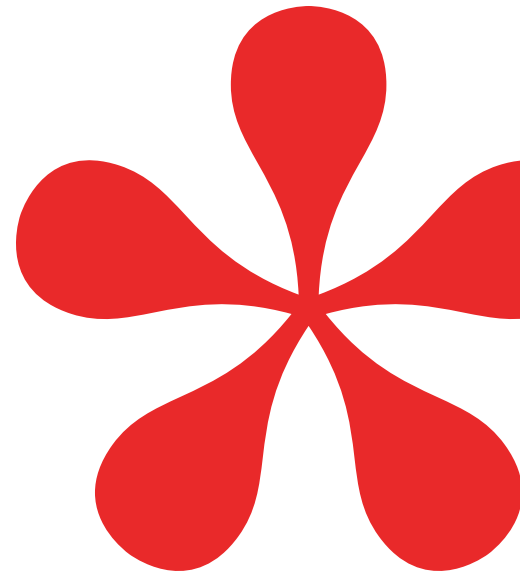

The educators and staff of the museum dedicated themselves to greater community need formed initiatives in sustainability, resiliency, accessibility, inclusion, and digital futures. Most notably, the museum rethought its role in community wellness: physical, social, and emotional.

The Cincinnati Art Museum's mission, built on the power of art and artists to uplift our city through inspiration and connection, was more needed than ever in 2020–2021. As we look forward, we are emboldened by the calls to realize the vision of Cincinnati Mayor Amor Smith Jr, who on May 17, 1886, dedicated our museum as "a gift of the people for the people."

Sincerely,

Cameron Kitchin

HANK WILLIS THOMAS: ALL THINGS BEING EQUAL . . .

SEPTEMBER 4, 2020–NOVEMBER 8, 2020

Western and Southern Galleries

Organized by the Portland Art Museum, Oregon, this major retrospective asked us to look critically at systemic injustice in our own society while reminding us that we have the power to speak, listen, hope, and hold fast to joy. Nearly 100 works brought the artist's exploration of everyday imagery and its consequences to life in powerful ways.

FRANK DUVENECK: AMERICAN MASTER

DECEMBER 18, 2020–MAY 9, 2021

Western and Southern Galleries

This exhibition re-evaluates the work of Frank Duveneck, the most influential painter in Cincinnati history, with the first comprehensive exhibition in more than thirty years. Through his brilliant and inspiring work as a painter and printmaker and as a charismatic teacher, Duveneck's impact on the international art world was substantial and enduring.

The Alice F. and Harris K. Weston Gallery

A revisitation of the 1979 exhibition curated by Barbara Rose and first displayed at Grey Art Gallery at New York University, this exhibition is Rose's concept of what was to come in the 1980s and the future. Ronnie and John Shore were so enamored of the work in the exhibition they purchased it in its entirety in 1984.

PAINTINGS, POLITICS AND THE MONUMENTS MEN: THE BERLIN MASTERPIECES IN AMERICA

The Thomas R. Schiff Gallery

The exhibition examines how art was used in the World War II era, details the odyssey of 202 paintings from Berlin that traveled across Europe and the United States in the immediate aftermath of the war, and celebrates Cincinnati's Walter Farmer's role as a Monuments Man and lifelong advocate for the arts.

Exhibitions

The Cincinnati Art Museum is ever-changing, rotating unique, powerful and diverse special exhibitions throughout the year. In fiscal year 2020–2021, eight exhibitions were curated and brought to fruition. Of these, six were organized by the Cincinnati Art Museum and two were organized by another institution in collaboration with the art museum. The Curatorial Division also assisted in a number of installations throughout the museum, including portrait miniatures, fans, prints, drawings, photographs, and fashion. Finally, the art museum toured two exhibitions nationally and internationally.

Learning & Interpretation

The Division of Learning & Interpretation designs the Cincinnati Art Museum's immersive and interactive learning experiences, which provide opportunities for visitors of all ages and abilities to explore world cultures, engage with artworks, and contemplate big ideas.

ACCESSIBILITY AUDIT AND EXPANSION INITIATIVE

Between 2019 and 2021, the Cincinnati Art Museum implemented the Accessibility Audit and Expansion Initiative funded by the Institute of Museum and Library Services Museums for America grant. Museum staff and volunteers completed extensive training and created departmental policies that view their work through a lens of accessibility. The grant allowed the museum to compile data from the local disability community and audit the accessibility of the museum grounds and website. The newly formed Accessibility Community Advisory Council is the museum's community partner and has been working with our cross-divisional staff Accessibility Committee on this initiative to make the museum a more inclusive place for all. These efforts continue to create staff awareness of accessible practices and have identified steps the museum must take to continue forward on the path toward greater accessibility.

CINCINNATI PUBLIC SCHOOLS 4TH GRADE INITIATIVE

The Flo Koettlers Cincinnati Public Schools (CPS) Program is designed to expose all CPS 4th-grade students to Cincinnati's rich history in the arts. Students enjoy a docent-guided tour and an art-making project, whether in person or virtually. This program focuses on the Cincinnati Wing galleries, connecting to the students' studies of community and Ohio history. While on tour, students experience five artworks unique to the Cincinnati region. After participating in the tour, students create their own artwork. All art-making materials are provided, and each student gains a greater appreciation for the arts and the opportunity to create.

ENGAGING WITH OUR COMMUNITY

Like many of our programs in 2020–2021, our community engagement work was challenged by COVID-19. The opening of Art Climb allowed the museum to interact with local residents in a safe, outdoor environment. On October 3, 2020, 250 community members attended the Art, Climb, VOTE event in collaboration with Wave Pool gallery, ArtWorks, and national partner For Freedoms to register voters and celebrate civic action. This event was planned to support the Hank Willis Thomas: All Things Being Equal . . . exhibition and took place on the steps of Art Climb.

The museum staff embraced their Walnut Hills neighbors as community partners in December 2020 by supporting our local CPS primary school, Fredrick Douglass Elementary, with a holiday gift card collection. More than forty different staff members across every division contributed gift cards for the families and students at the school, enabling a donation of over $800.

ONLINE PROGRAMMING

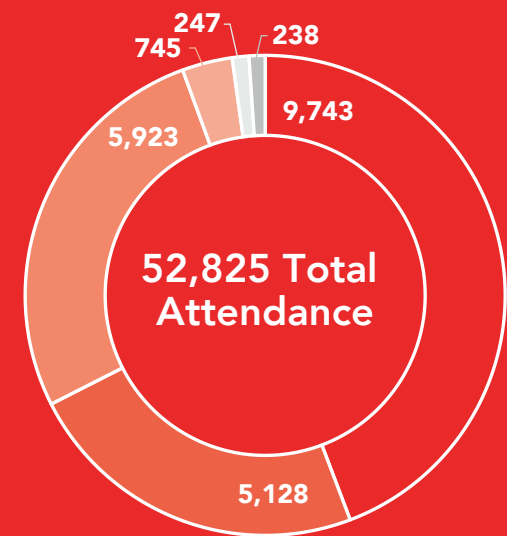

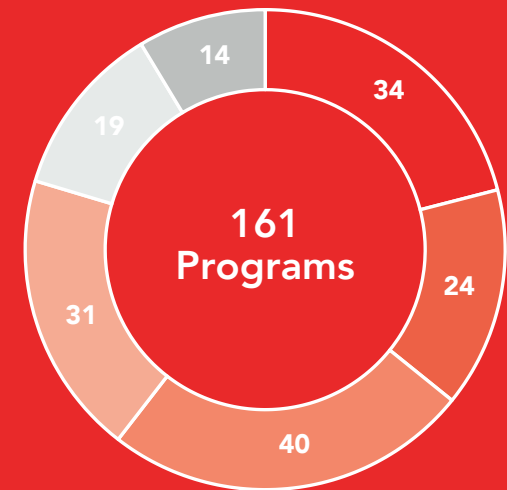

In 2020–2021, when COVID-19 required the museum to pause on-site programs and tours, the Division of Learning & Interpretation was challenged to continue our work of bringing people and art together—now online. Begun in March 2020, CAM Connect, the museum's Facebook group, continued to serve art lovers around the world in the new fiscal year. Engaging with members in more than twenty-five countries, museum staff and volunteers created 296 original videos for visitors of all ages. In September 2020, the museum also began to share all its CAM Connect content on our YouTube page. Especially popular on the site was our video series Curator/Archaeologist Reacts to Video Games (1,372,527 views). A total of 1,402,367 people viewed our content in 2020–2021. Our Art Palace podcast continues to be highly rated, with more than 9,000 listens in at least fifty different countries.

ROSENTHAL EDUCATION CENTER RE-OPENING AND TRANSITION WITH COVID

The Rosenthal Education Center (REC) reopened to the public in September 2020 with Terence Hammond's art installation Everything is Everything, after a closure of five months due to COVID-19. New policies to ensure the safety of visitors to the REC include family pod-based social distancing, individually packaged projects, and sanitizing art supplies between groups.

In December 2020, the REC suspended in-person art-making and transitioned to offering to-go art kits. Totes filled with prepackaged art projects and instructions were distributed to visitors in the REC during museum hours. In May 2021, the REC opened A Festive Procession by Christian Schmit, and in July of 2021 the space resumed in-person art-making.

Marketing & Communications

The Division of Marketing & Communications, dedicated to promoting museum exhibitions, events, programs, and more, continued to adapt its goals and strategies due to the ongoing pandemic in 2021. While supporting the museum's mission and maintaining the strength of its brand, staff looked for new and innovative ways to create in-person and virtual connections.

SOCIAL MEDIA GROWTH

Leveraging social media is one of the most effective ways for an organization to engage with visitors and improve brand loyalty while boosting awareness and visitation. Marketing uses paid social media advertising to increase revenue—earning more than $80,000 during the 2020–2021 timeframe. Marketing also sold close to 400 memberships and generated 11 million impressions on Facebook and Instagram.

New opportunities for engagement included online contests and campaigns such as the "It's the Most Wonderful Climb of the Year" and "Top Dog of the Art Climb" photo contests, as well as the "Adopt a Bee" campaign that generated 420 donors and raised close to $7,000 for the museum.

MARKETING AND EVENTS CONTINUED TO PIVOT

The Cincinnati Art Museum reaches beyond the walls of the museum into the community. Art After Dark, a free community event planned, promoted, and executed by the marketing team, was held virtually twice (with 1,789 online attendees in January and 4,701 in March). It was held in person in July with 1,438 attendees. The July event was the first in-person Art After Dark program in 18 months and highlighted inside exhibitions and outside entertainment on the Art Climb and in the Alice Bimel Courtyard.

Marketing also celebrated its recognition as a 2021 finalist for a National Medal for Museum and Library Service by the Institute of Museum and Library Services and the anniversary of the Art Climb with an in-person event called "Lunch Break on the Art Climb." With several hundred visitors in attendance, it was a chance to engage with the community with food trucks, a DJ, and giveaways.

Museum Staff Committees

The Cincinnati Art Museum has strategically created cross-departmental committees to engage with important issues tied to the museum's mission. In 2020, these committees helped the institution adapt to pandemic-driven change, addressing new needs as they arose.

ACCESSIBILITY COMMITTEE

The cross-divisional staff Accessibility Committee is the driving force behind the museum's mission to being more welcoming to and usable by all audiences. The committee's main work this year includes completing a booklet of departmental accessibility policies to integrate disability awareness into staff daily work flows. The work of the committee continues to expand knowledge about best practices in accessibility through trainings and resource sharing across the staff.

DIGITAL COMMITTEE

This cross-divisional committee examines the museum's digital practices and suggests creative and strategic improvements. This year the committee discussed internal and external systems and identified pressure points. These conversations informed a digital strategy, to be shared with staff in 2022. The committee is leading efforts to update our collections database, which will vastly improve our digital resources, and secured funding for all staff to join a series of digital summits, encouraging professional development in this burgeoning field.

GREEN TEAM

The Cincinnati Art Museum has been abuzz as we welcomed two new beehives, filled with 60,000 bees, in spring 2021. Our bees are hard at work in the community as pollinators, traveling to neighborhoods up to three miles away.

The museum was also able to secure a grant for $100,000 to upgrade the climate control systems that help conserve the collection. Not only will this allow us to save on energy bills, it is an important piece of our sustainability goals in working toward becoming a greener museum.

Community members can keep up with the museum's initiatives through our new sustainability web page.

By the Numbers

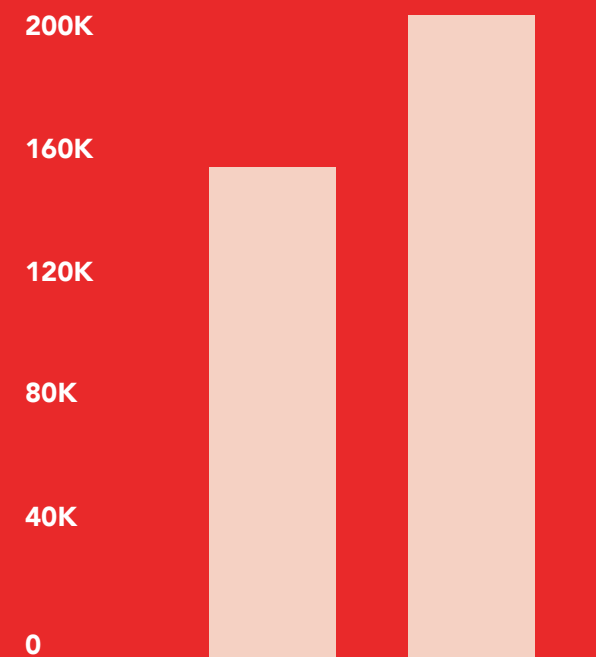

The Cincinnati Art Museum has continued to listen to visitors throughout the COVID-19 pandemic, and we were excited to learn how visitors have been experiencing our new art space, Art Climb.

Art Climb is reaching new and different audiences than see inside the building, including many climbers from nearby neighborhoods. Visitors come to Art Climb for exercise, time with family and friends, art enjoyment, and outdoors or garden enjoyment. The average visit is about 40 minutes, with many walking the space frequently. Visitors shared that there is a growing and vibrant forming amongst frequent climbers.

VISITORS DESCRIBED THE ART CLIMB USING THE WORDS IN THIS CLOUD. THE LARGER THE TYPE, THE MORE FREQUENTLY THE WORD WAS USED.

THIS CHART ILLUSTRATES HOW ART CLIMB ATTENDANCE HAS GROWN BETWEEN THE FIRST AND SECOND YEAR AS AWARENESS AND POPULARITY INCREASES.

VISITOR QUOTES ABOUT ART CLIMB

"These steps make me feel like Rocky when he climbed up the steps. What an amazing feeling to have knowing that you accomplished something big."

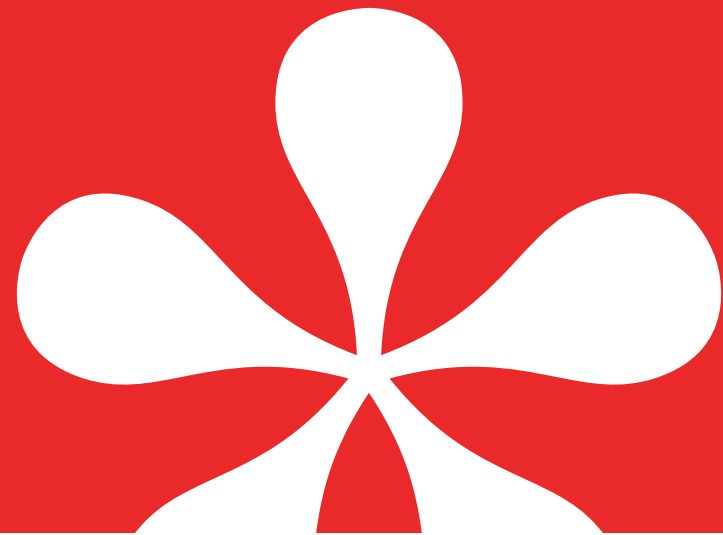

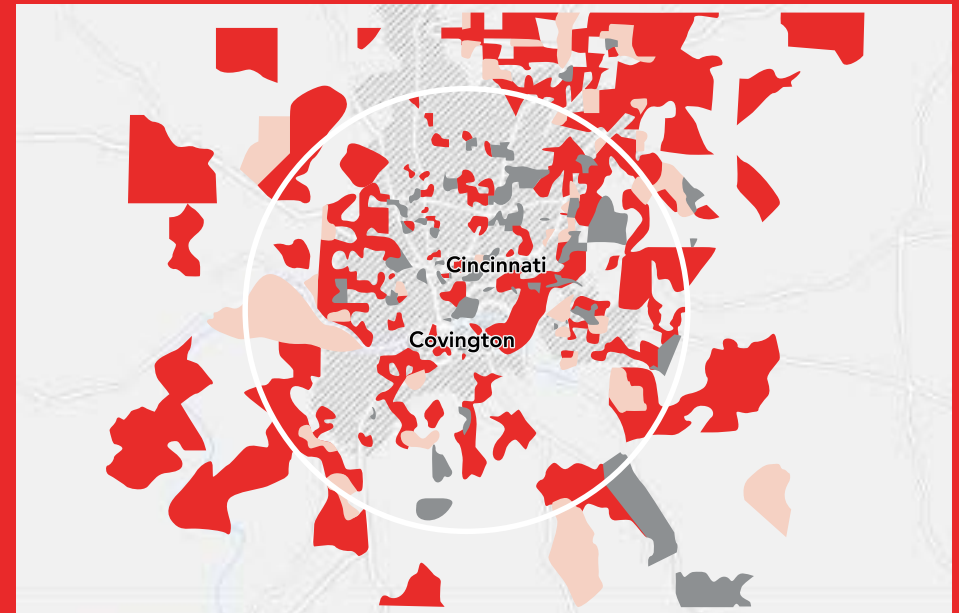

"It's helped me start to work out again after quarantine."

"I climbed steps to the top, I did not think I would."

"Had a great talk about art vs design in application to The Cube."

"This was a great experience as we ran into it on accident and I'm glad we found this gem."

THE MAP BELOW SHOWS THAT WE ARE SEEING A DIFFERENT GROUP OF VISITORS ON ART CLIMB THAN WE DO IN THE BUILDING. RED IS CINCINNATI ART MUSEUM VISITORS, GREY IS ART CLIMB ONLY, AND PINK IS BOTH.

New Project Highlights

The Cincinnati Art Museum continued its efforts to physically represent its commitment to engage with the community in 2020–2021. After the opening of the new access ramp to the front entrance in 2019, and the Art Climb in 2020, the museum continued to build on its successes.

PAINTING CONSERVATION RENOVATION

The Paintings and Objects Conservation Lab underwent major renovation in the summer and fall of 2020 to become a more modern and efficient workspace. Updates included a new fume hood for handling the different solvents conservators use, an improved photo studio area to provide an enhanced digital imaging process, and upgraded temporary storage for the many paintings and objects awaiting conservation.

REBUILT FRONT PARKING LOT

In December 2020, the new design and reconstruction of the parking lot introduced several improvements to the museum's grounds. Of the 145 spots on the updated parking lot, which were reimagined for more intuitive traffic flow, 10 are ADA accessible. In addition to a new, underground retention tank for rainwater, the museum also added electric vehicle charging stations for visitor use.

NEW OUTDOOR ART AND PATH

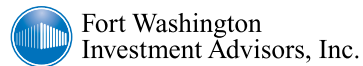

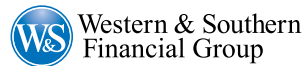

In the fall of 2020, the museum opened an ADA-accessible path leading to the top landing of the Art Climb. At the same time, the museum added outdoor artworks including Chakaia Booker's LBD Duty Free (2014), Barton Rubenstein's Skybound (2012), and Tony Rosenthal's Cube (1997). In spring 2021, Jim Dine's Pinocchio (Emotional) was reinstalled between the parking lot and the arrival court.
